Yo!

All good here. We're finishing the last few things at the ranch this week. Everything is a go thus far. Satellite, pool, motos, toys, wireless internet---it all works.

Any requests for groceries? I'm going to the Food Hole on Saturday. Cold beer?

The place looks great. And you have the best view from any pool in Texas. Oh, and the grass and flowers are greeeeeeeen. Two inches of rain on Sunday.

Also have a few more sections of sweet singletrack---all smiles from everyone whose ridden it. And yes, it's muuuuuuuuccch more tame than previously. A sport-class chick rode it and loved it. She only had to get off once. The kids loop is nearly done as well. Sheryl needs a mountainbike and you need a new one! It's time for full suspension. Don't be a Luddite! Get a Fuel 100. Its been a long time since we went trail riding amigo, too long. Copper Canyon?!

I have a few more bat houses to put up, but i thought that it would be cool to get the kids involved (Luke at least) in the project. So, when it settles down a bit, Uncle Mike can take everyone on a field trip. My friends the biologists came out to help me with the bats and showed me a whole bunch of cool stuff that i had not noticed. Oh, and the Bone Cave...it now has a rather large skull inside of it. They seem to be convinced that a bobcat, or mtn lion lives nearby. What else could drag a deer in there?

BTW, this job affords me an enormous amount of time to think. It's what I do when I'm out there under the hot Hill Country sun building trails. Well, I thought alot about the conversation you and i had before you last left, and have come to the conclusion that we have the two best jobs in the world. Your job is only slightly more enviable because you get to ride your bike for a living. I guess that this is a big "Thanks!".

I'm proud to know you and eternally grateful for everything you've done for me and my family. Deadman's Hole is waiting.

Homeboy,

How's it going?

I tried to send this to allison but I think I don't have her correct email address in my blackberry..

Can you read this then pass it on to her?

Thanks, bro.

Thanks for the note! I'm glad it's over and we're coming home!!

We do need a favor actually. I'm worried that the clothes we have for the kids will not fit. Both for luke and the girls. Would it be possible for you to hit the old navy and the gap kids and go a little crazy?? We're going to the beach in florida next week so we'll need beach stuff as well. But we'll also need regular clothes as well.

Could you also pick up all the other essentials? Diapers, sunscreen, swimmers, arm floaties, goggles, hats, sandals, shoes, etc, etc...

Might be best to call becca and get their exact sizes?

Also, as we are officially crazy, we're getting a dog. The day we get back. We want to crate train him so can miguel pick up a good crate? medium sized...

Thanks, AA!!
