frankie.

thanks for the help here. the more i think about this though, the harder i find it to understand why your wife did what she did. let me get this straight, you work for the team (or some form of usps), oln (where we work together on a daily basis), and all she cared about was getting left alone by this little idiot. to go around and say to becky "please don't tell kevin" is as snaky and conniving as it gets. i know betsy is not a fan, and that's fine, but by helping to bring me down is not going to help y'all's situation at all. there is a direct link to all of our success here and i suggest you remind her of that.

again, not to be a dick but this really stings, and i cannot for the life of me, get my arms around it..

thanks.

Hey, I told you I would talk with Walsh. I tried to get some information for you and he finally called back. Betsy answered the phone and he started to ask her some questions but she told him she had nothing to say and then called me to the phone.

Generally, he asked about some questions about Ferrari. If I ever trained with Ferrari? if there was pressure from the team to work with Ferrari? Then he asked me why not? I told him because I didn't want to. I already had a training program. He asked me if I was surprised that you were able to get 4th in the Vuelta and a couple of othe stupid questions.

Then he switched subjects and wanted to know about in 1999 when we got in our disagreement before Amstel Gold. I told him that it was nothing and it was a long time ago, he wanted to know what it was about. I just told him it was something petty and small, no big deal. Then he asked if the "falling out" was the same reason that you had a "falling out" with Kevin. I told him that we still get along and I can't speak for Kevin.

That was pretty much it. Give me a call tomorrow. I would have called you already but it's like almost midnight for you.

I don't think he will be calling back again so I don't know if I would be able to follow up at all on anything. I don't know if this helps at all but I tried. Let me know what you want me to do.
Talk to you later...frankie
